

ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER IS “TERMINATING” FAMILY VALUES

By Ron McGehee

A lone man disguises himself to infiltrate a government organization. He uses his guile to rise up high in their ranks undetected. Then he unleashes secret weapon SB 777 that will infect the children with mind-altering results. And now chaos ensues. Arnold Schwarzeneger is “The Recanted Republican.” No, this is not a movie that is coming out for a summer release, this actually is happening in California. Governor Arnold, is introducing SB 777 that will teach kids as young as five years old, about transsexuality, bisexuality and homosexuality. The practical effect of SB 777 will be to require positive portrayals of these sexual lifestyles at every government-operated school. And if these schools do not comply, then those schools will be subject to intimidation and lawsuits by the State Department of Education.

Whatever happened to the three R’s, writing, reading, and arithmetic? Seriously, whatever happened to them? Only one of them actually starts with the letter R. Why don’t we start with changing the basics, before we quiz children on whether it’s ok if Timmy and Tommy can get married? In this day and age everyone will eventually, learn about the gay and lesbian community in our society. There is plenty that our failing public school system can find to teach without new programs to be “intro-forced” on our kids.

I am not a basher of the gay lifestyle. I have gay friends. I call them friends because if they were in need of help I would be there and I know they would be there for me if I needed help. I have dinner with them, hang out at the comedy clubs with them. We sit and chat. There have been times where we have debated our totally different views about the gay lifestyle. We let one another state their views and interject points as we go along. I have not changed my friends view about the gay lifestyle, but I have changed their views on what is a Christian. Accepting, loving, caring, and a loyal friend. But never wishy-washy about the beliefs I live by presented to me by God through the Bible.

If to have Christian values taught at a school it has to be private then why not have private schools that teach about the gay lifestyle and then parents can choose whether they want their kids exposed to those teachings? If a bill was presented to “intro-force” Christian values upon children at public schools, then the ACLU and a plethora of organizations would be out in force boycotting it. I would like to have Christian principles to be sprinkled throughout our public schools. But then everyone else’s beliefs and lifestyles would need to be incorporated as well. Then there would be no time to waste on numbers, letters, or History. We would all sit around, not knowing what time or day it was, or even what our original beliefs were, since we can’t read anymore. Slowly, dying off from sicknesses we don’t know how to fight. But we would respect each other’s beliefs, which at this point has amalgamated into eat, sleep, and blink. We would be in one big circle holding hands and singing, (I was going to say Kum-By-Ya, but that is a little biased, especially to the Vegan-Hindu-Batman Fans-who eat Pink Berry), singing of course, Hanson’s MMMmmm Bop!

Ron McGehee has made a number of guest television appearances including NBC’s “Last Comic Standing 2”, Comedy Central, ABC Family, starred in and co produced the reality show I Love Kerri.tv and has written for The Late, Late Show with Craig Kilborn, The Carson Daily Show, and Jimmy Kimmel. Ron tours extensively performing stand up, speaking at churches and colleges bringing his life lessons and hilarious multi cultural humor to audiences nationally. He is also busy as a screenwriter and contributing writer in many magazines.

For more information on Ron McGehee: www.funnyron.com